Dr. Janet Stamm, to begin the eulogy in negatives, is not dogmatic. She is master of the biting phrase told at the critical moment. Her mind is strong, both in its resource and in its mastery of the extemporaneous; few can stand up against her in the verbal brawls of the seminar room. But the moving thing about Dr. Stamm is that she is not mean, nor cruel; never malicious. She is a teacher.

As a teacher, Janet Stamm builds competence and pursues excellence in her students with both patience and tolerance, both of these things being special because talent of mind and depth in understanding are necessarily restless and usually inconsiderate.

Dr. Stamm asks questions and hears stupid answers. She assigns essays and papers, but students return to her writing in which the atrocities in language are overshadowed only by the shoddiness of reasoning. Obviously she recognizes stupidity and ignorance for what they are. But they are not the things which fascinate her. The phenomenon in which she is interested is that by the end of the hour, the week, the semester, the four years -students will distinguish stupidity and ignorance from truth. For, in spite of superiority of experience and the sometimes advantage of talent, she is content to demonstrate; to bring things clear; to train minds, not insult them. And the final result of this is to show people the value of things human; strictness and discipline, yes; rigorous standards, yes; technique, structure, mechanics, yes. But all for the purpose of realizing a birthright. Dr. Stamm's courses are lessons beyond text; the scope is large and important.

When Dr. Stamm teaches, two things are active. One is that she stands on a common ground with students because the problem is the ancient one: life. But the other thing is that she keeps her professional distance. The lessons are taught by an ingenious combination of the two; the challenging and moving company of a mind genuinely awed, excited, frightened by reality; and the authority and competence with which she faces problems which only start in the classroom. She is a teacher.

Teaching is only what Dr. Stamm does; who she is, is certainly more complex. She is the faculty member who constantly walks into offices of the Administration and scares officials with the rigor and the argumentation of her standards. Hers is the laugh too loud in the face of pedantry. Hers is the annoying conscience, the blunt question, the unpleasantness of responsibility. Dr. Stamm is hard to live with. Not that she is a prophet come to warn the people; and not that she is a friend of the Furies. She is simply the energy with which colleges are supercharged. The forces within Dr. Stamm that are so uncomfortable to be around are the strengths by which men crawled out of the slimy swamp, stood on two feet —and began to think. It is the special thing which has made man become Man. So that her energies are the stuff of the liberal education: questions, protests, indignation, amusement—reasonable hope.

In appreciation of these things, the 1964 Ciarla is dedicated to Dr. Janet Stamm, Assistant Professor of English.

LAMBDA EPSILON DELTA

Having had to salaam toward the East Campus for lo these many years, the women of Muhlenberg College led by Lambda Epsilon Delta, co-ed honor society, have begun a subtle rebellion, seeking the "Other World Beyond the Walls" and control of the campus. L.E.D. compiled a summer job inventory file; who were the biggest users of the rubber-banded, shoeboxed aid to unemployed co-eds? Men. Who sets their feminine intuitions loose to help screen candidates for Student Court? L.E.D. Who helped bring A.A.U.W. membership to 'Berg girls? Who sold rides on a tractor driven by Dr. Swain? Who auctioned off a day's lab work to be done by Dr. Smart? L.E.D. Watch Out! Today the Weekly, tomorrow Student Council, next year—the world.

PI DELTA EPSILON

Pi Delta Epsilon exists for the purpose of self-perpetuation, meeting only occasionally to elect new members from the ranks of up and coming journalists and creative writers. The highlight of an otherwise uneventful year was the Fall initiation ceremony. President Edward Bonekemper III, dressed in the formal "redcoat" of the College's dining room staff, led the ceremony while several flutophone players provided a unique musical touch to the dignified ceremony.

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA

The purpose of Omicron Delta Kappa is really two-fold: the honoring and flattering of male campus leaders, and the co-ordinating of various campus activities. Membership is chosen as objectively as possible through standards of excellence in academics, and by participating in sports and extra-curricular activities.

The only successful project attempted by the group this year was a Boy Scout type of project which involved the operation of a lot to sell Christmas trees in order to raise money for the Foreign Student Fund. Hard physical work and an agrarian sort of honesty assured the efficiency of this operation. The efforts during the Spring semester to compose and evaluate a fourteen page poll revealing student opinion about campus matters ended up in nine piles of completed but un-corrected questionnaires.

DELTA PHI NU

A purge of the "point-less" resulted in a great decrease in the membership of Delta Phi Nu this year. The girls who had been expunged from the roll for failing to amass sufficient points for service must have been the type who could win points for daring, however, because when the time came to auction off girls for the annual slave sale at ODK's carnival, few of the remaining members were willing to name their prices. Some of the girls have been taking whirlpool treatments for crinks in their little fingers—too many hours of duty at teas which invariably serve punch. DPN girls also usher, guide, do volunteer work at the Allentown Hospital and entertain children at the Good Shepherd Home on special days.

Members of the Cardinal Key Society are to be found at all activities which require the services of ushers or guides. No group at the college shows more people to their seats, gives more directions, or distributes more programs than these men. Looking quite dapper and disarmingly collegiate in their navy-blue blazers complete with insignia, Cardinal Key members escort prospective students and guests around the campus, euphemistically describing life at Muhlenberg.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

Helping little old co-eds across the dangerous intersection in front of the Student Union building is only one of the many unselfish acts performed by the Xi Alpha chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, the college Boy Scout troop. With their trusty canteens at the ready, the Scouts strove to "Be Prepared" in all situations. They earned their Fuller Brush badges by selling Christmas trees for the Foreign Student Fund. They earned their halo badges by assisting the Directors of Publicity and Church Relations, and ushering at Sunday chapels. They won their merit badges for solicitation by collecting donations at basketball games and for the March of Dimes, and they have fought to a man the silverfish in their dorms.

In spite of the vacuum of coziness in which the 1963-1964 Student Council operated, it distinguished itself as being the only organization at Muhlenberg which deliberately exercised a political function. As a political body it was unique that it was both pressure group and government.

Its attitude as a pressure group derived from the necessity for 1100 students to have a coherent voice in the college's affairs, and from time to time, Councilmen lead by a deliberately tactless President Edwin Hoffman could toddle up to the Administration and walk away with the exact favors for which they half-asked, half-demanded.

Student Council this year found a new pride and a uniquely high self-opinion, and thus the service it offered as coordinator of student affairs was improved. Whereas before, Council had had only huge sums of money with which to purchase its power, this year it was effective largely through its own dignity. When its directives on the Union dress rules were overridden by an ambitious Union Board of Directors, a unified Council quickly established a harsh hierarchy among campus groups during a well attended open meeting.

Its day to day business was often trivial and bureaucratic but there were concrete accomplishments. A test file was set up in the Library, various judicial groups on campus were brought under the final jurisdiction of the Student Court, scholarships were made possible with surplus funds, and irresponsible budgeting by radio station WMUH was corrected.

Most of what the Muhlenberg Student Council does every year is merely noisy and is more than petty. Much of the energy of its Councilmen goes into personal feuding and unstatesmenlike status-seeking. And by the end of the year, its record will read as it does this year—a book without words.

The importance of Muhlenberg's Student Council is that it is vigorous and self-conscious. Thus it is something to be reckoned with in the college's continuing history. It is a strong force, more moral than it is amoral or immoral, so its final and oblique role ought to be that of a defender of academic freedom and a sponsor of the Liberal Arts. The Student Council is a group at Muhlenberg which can do this, being vigorous in its existence and deliberately political in its operation.

Samewhere between, but a bit to the right of bewigged and stone-faced justices and vigilante committees, sits the Student Court, the highest student judicial body on campus, next to the administration. The Student Court introduced a pre-trial hearing fashianed after the real world's grand jury system and eliminating the old hearsay system which is still popular with some groups. The Court also reviewed the canstitutians of all campus organizations in an attempt to develop consistency in at least ane area of college life. The Court made a sincere attempt to dispel the claak and dagger atmosphere that some claimed mingled with the smoke in their chambers by publishing an account of the nature af each case and their verdict in the Weekly. Because no names were mentioned, the accounts were rather uninteresting except to thase who enjay a good quiz game.

STUDENT COURT

Seated: M. Campion, P. Schlenker, F. Haverly, President; C. Taylar, P. Topham, J. Maraz. Standing: J. Petree, R. Milligan, N. Gasbarra, David Seamons, Unian Director.

This was the first eventful year after the transitian from a perhaps too small, but warm, affectionate, and livable STUDENT Center to a cald, impersonal, unfriendly, glass-walled Union. The Union Board of Directors assumed its conspicuous role, fulfilling its purpose in providing cultural, recreational, social, and educational programs far the Student Body. A recapitulation of those events would prove to be as formidable as an explanation of the students' apathy ta them.

Highlighting the annual monotany was the Baard's decision ta pravide a dead-locked Student Council with a long overdue stimulus to revise the dress rules. However, more important to each af the members was the ever-present opportunity ta be imaginative, to wark ambitiously and dedicatedly, to organize, ta delegate, to remember, ta philander, to be abnoxious, to uphold principles, ta loath, to admire, and to da nothing.

UNION BOARD

Thus as the Board performed, waiting eagerly for the stirring exhortations of its advisar, Hamecaming, Jr. Prom, and Chad Mitchell flew past.

The Association of Callege Unians Conference held at Drexel was the Board's mast successful party af the year. In addition to providing an opportunity for most members to enliven hotel parties with the assistance of lubricated Folk Singers, tour museums under the direction of a fastaging hostess, and to incidentally gather bits of information that would justify their original purpose in attending, this conference also provided very lucrative reimbursement for "transpartationists," and an appartunity for some to "get" further "away from it all."

Returning to the domestic scene, ping-pong, bawling, and poal taurnaments were scheduled anly with cansiderable difficulty in the Game Room that was thearetically available ta students at all times. Administrative work schedules—instituted to aff-set the regular eight haur recreation periad—seemed ta perpetually conflict with student-desired haurs.

Cultivating sincere and lasting Student-Faculty-Administrative relationships should indeed be ane af the underlying abjectives af all Unian Baard pragrams. The successful Board of Directors will neither find the answers ta its problems squatting smugly behind a Unian desk, nar being whispered softly at a canference, nar shaken wildly at a dance, nar measured aut in unsweetened cups af coffee, but shall find them in student interest, faculty concern, and administrative respansibility.

WOMEN'S COUNCIL

Under the impartial gavel of tactful Florence Kahmar, Women's Council looked after the welfare of each Muhlenberg Coed, sometimes even of commuters. The major contribution of this year's Council was its creation and adoption of a new and decidedly more workable constitution, although much of Council's energy was devoted to an extensive evaluation of teas vs. banquets for ring ceremonies, rulings on co-ed wrestling meets on the front campus, and deciding whether the subscription to Sports Illustrated ought to be renewed or would the boys waiting in Prosser Lobby prefer reading Presbyterian Life next term? The council was also a successful winner in that popular campus game, "Freedom Now" or "Pin the Tail on the Administration."

MEN'S DORM COUNCIL

Seated: W. Stoudt, F. Eck, President; J. Marsh. Standing: K. Arndt, C. Gills, J. Bowles, T. Bird, C. Lewis, W. Jones, R. DeVett, J. Davies, K. Butz.

People are chosen for membership on the Men's Dorm Council primarily because they look big and strong. Residents of Martin Luther Hall or East Hall, up before one of the Council's Monday night meetings, are faced with a table of solemn brutes who look as if they eat disciplinary cases between football games. And this is the main intention of the Dormitory Council. Because for years study conditions in the mens' dorms forced serious students to seek out places other than their rooms to study. Good study conditions are now in effect in the dorms because of sheer force and the dedication of its members. Beyond the bully role, new policy instituted this year by President Jack Eck urged the Council to add the job of counselor to its police role, so that the Dorm Council now sponsors scholarships, requests dorm repairs by the Administration, and talks privately to especially troubled persons. But their main job still remains the protection of study conditions through brute forcesomething which is indispensable to the Liberal Arts in the 20th Century.

FRESHMAN ORIENTATION

Although the Freshman Orientation Committee was formed only four years ago, it has quickly become one of the prestige organizations on the Muhlenberg campus. The Committee's purpose is to aid the Freshman's adjustment to college life rather than hindering it as the infamous Tribunal was inclined to do. Now the bewildered Frosh not only has to contend with a Big Brother or Sister who is trying to impress him with upperclass sophistication, but also with a friendly orientation advisor who gives him aid and comfort on one hand and enforces traditional dink-doffing respect to General Pete on the other.

There are many fringe benefits for Committee members aside from the opportunity to become a collegiate hero symbol to the impressionable Freshmen. Fraternity men have an opportunity to get their sights on potential pledges (Horrors! Not dirty rushing . . .?); upperclass women can confront and evaluate the new competition; and upperclass males get a head start on the rest of the male population in the attempt to impress a fresh crop of wide-eyed, fair, young maidens. In this game, nobody loses but the Freshmen.

A college yearbook is not a supplement to the catalogue. If it is a dynamic book, it can help to create a vital image of the college to outsiders. But the yearbook has a definite responsibility to the student body whose life in one academic year it represents. A yearbook needs to be intimate and individual: intimate in its portrayal of the people, events, and attitudes which uniquely affected the college community in a particular year; and individual in its approach to that portrayal, in the ordering of the year's chaos into a coherent statement of what the school means to those who live and work in it.

The guiding idea behind the 1964 Ciarla was, therefore, to define with pictures and words the conspicuous and the subtle ingredients which gave Muhlenberg College an elusive, but very real personality as an educational institution. Not all that is said (please read the copy!) is complimentary. But then that is one of the privileges and responsibilities of intimacy: it reveals faults as well as merits.

The Ciarla was created this year by a staff, so that many diverse and sometimes highly personal definitions of Muhlenberg were contributed to the making of the final statement: the 1964 Ciarla. To these hardworking and imaginative people: Thank you.

WEEKLY

Making a significant contribution to the total program of Muhlenberg College, the Muhlenberg Weekly made a real fine effort to cooperate with all the constituencies of the college community. The Weekly took a positive attitude—positive abhorrence of all campus developments.

Noteworthy Weekly kudos went to the football coaches, the radio station, and, consistently during the year, to the administration. These groups showed their appreciation to the paper by sponsoring a thinly-disguised censorship bill and by berating the Weekly for continuing its tradition of irresponsible yellow journalism.

The left-wing Bonekemper-Kidd-Dempster-Jones-Becker-Franz-Dewald faction of the staff were the recipients of frequent criticism for their consistently negative attitudes. And, in the true spirit of Muhlenberg, their occasionally positive statements drew criticism from other quarters. All in all, the Weekly once again satisfied no one but the staff and proved to be a millstone around the social community's neck.

It still remains to be seen whether the Weekly can lead Muhlenberg over the brink or out of the quagmire.

PUBLICATIONS BOARD

The Publications Board is conspicuous for its inconspicuousness. Composed of the editors and business managers of the three college publications and the managers of the radio station, the Board meets to generously allot reserve funds to alleviate the debts of its member organizations.

This year the Board spearheaded the investigation of WMUH's proposed budget, thereby creating a political springboard for Student Council Presidential aspirant Tom Horne. However, both Mr. Horne and the radio station lost their respective contests.

WMUH

WMUH is a constantly struggling organization. It operated under primitive conditions in the basement of the Library, and then disappeared entirely for a few months before moving into its new facilities in the Seegers Union. But, alas, the station's troubles were just beginning. Student Council challenged the validity of some of the station's proposed expenditures, and this prompted a "Council probe" into WMUH's finances. Then always looming like an active-radio cloud in the station's future is the possibility of obtaining an FM license which would allow the station to broadcast throughout the Lehigh Valley. Will the struggling, harrassed college radio station make good? Will the FCC grant WMUH an FM license? Tune in next week for another frustrating chapter.

ARCADE

David Gaskill, Editar

The best thing about the Arcade is that when it is a success, it is a private triumph and not the shared glory of a synthetic group. It is written in the isolation of dormitory rooms, downtown apartments and the secret places of minds no longer quite young. The Spring edition contained a balanced mixture of short story and poetry, the end result being a collection of well-written, individual expression.

It was the literary toleration of editor David Gaskill which attracted contributing talent. But more than this, the poetry of the editor himself had a shaping effect upon the magazine: Gaskill's odd eloquence had rushed across the Arcade's pages for four years and during the period of his editorship people trusted the validity of their own perceptions.

ALPHA PSI OMEGA

Basking in obscurity, APO, not to be confused with the graduate-level Boy Scout troop having the same English initials, is the national dramatics fraternity for those actors on the Muhlenberg campus who have been affiliated with two separate dramatic societies as a performer and as a common stagehand. Considering the fact that the total number of dramatic societies at Muhlenberg equals exactly two, a person hoping to qualify for the fraternity must be extremely active in the theatre arts on campus.

MASK AND DAGGER

Mask and Dagger, Muhlenberg's traditional dramatic society, centers its interests primarily in the academic theatre and in providing the opportunity for all interested students to participate in all phases of theatrical experience. Two plays, chosen on the basis of their literary merit and entertainment value, are presented each year under the direction of Dr. Andrew Erskine. Considering this, people still drop in to see M & D performances, some of which approach the memorable. Who will ever forget the night a rainstorm interrupted Arms and the Man? Who among us is likely to forget the gay abandon of Bell, Book and Candle's witty lines?

At least in experimental theatre, the screaming keeps you awake—if it reaches the proper vibrations.

The Choir nearly vanished this year because new members were unwilling to sacrifice potential academic standings to practice, but love of music or the threat of no tour won out. Each year there is one number which is impossible to learn and which everyone hates because it so painfully reflects twentieth century cacophony. As usual, the musical bugbear was composed by the director, Ludwig Lenel, whose Lord of Lyfe surpassed his previous works in intricate rhythms and extremely close harmony. Audiences are always impressed by the group's virtuosity in singing the varied styles of Buxtehude, the American Negro, and Lenel. After a week of Southern exposure, the choir returned in a somewhat unsteady condition and sang a slightly offkey fragment of the concert program at Muhlenberg. Thousands of people in New England, the Midwest and the South are familiar with the skill of the Choir.

GLEE CLUB

The freshman class is the largest single group on campus ever to have heard the Glee Club sing. The men introduced the freshmen to the Alma Mater and other esoteric college songs at an orientation meeting. Attendance was compulsory.

This does not mean that the men lack talent; they lack only recognition. Off-campus, they have been well-received, having appeared on Scranton's WNEP-TV station in April. They frequently sing at churches and schools, bringing the college valuable low-pressure publicity. The club sneaked on-campus with a lawn concert at the Marsh home. The warm reception they earned seems to indicate that they ought to be given a whole assembly period to perform in early in the semester.

MARCHING AND CONCERT BAND

Respected by musicians all over the country, bandmaster Albertus L. Meyers gets as much attention from Muhlenberg students as a Weekly editorial. Despite the intense lack of interest in his work, Meyers consistently manages to create a bandand music—out of nearly 60 musicians and 10 drummers drawn from Muhlenberg's student body. The new stability and maturity of this year's band was due to its large number of senior members who stuck with the group for their entire four-year duration. This added maturity did not prevent the band from perfecting its Thoreauian ideal for marching formation: each to the beat of his own drummer.

Particularly memorable was the band's performance during half-time, Homecoming Weekend when it was allowed to march to the far end of the field, wait, and march back to its seats. Band members give all the credit for this occasion to Student Council and the Layfayette Band, without whose cooperation, they also could have played.

POLITICAL SCIENCE CONFERENCE

This being a presidential election year, the Political Science Conference has undertaken an active program to keep students aware of what's going on in politics. In April, the conference conducted a primary preference poll to determine the political composition of Muhlenberg College. Most students interviewed were registered apathetic or belonged to the Know-Nothing Party, although there were several Democrats and Republicans available for comment. Early in November, 1964, the conference will take a second poll to determine if any significant changes have taken place in the political atmosphere of the campus. One major expectation is that the number of yawns will possibly increase due to the hot air generated by the campaigns.

In conjunction with Phi Alpha Theta, honorary history fraternity, and with every other college in the Lehigh Valley, the conference risked the censure of some future McCarthy and present John Birchers by sponsoring the visit of two Russian diplomats to the Muhlenberg campus.

EDUCATION SOCIETY

The Education Society, composed of those students who are encountering the significance of the Old Deluder Satan Act for the twentieth time in their education texts, plus student teachers who carry the scars of ditto ink and chalk dust, managed to work the film projector well enough without the aid of Ed. 13 (Audio Visual Aids) to have some worthwhile meetings.

The society's members regret that they have not yet arrived at an answer to "why Johnny can't read," but as soon as they finish gluing their gold monogrammed initials on their brief cases, they promise to give it more thought.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS

Fellow Americans, as our country faces anew the Times that Try Men's Souls, let us consider not only our candidate for office, the sole candidate prepared to answer his nation's Clarion Call to Duty, but let us look beyond the man to his party, the Grand Old Party, the party of the people, the party of men who have Shaped Our Democracy, Abraham Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt, Dwight D. Eisenhower; the party that still upholds the Ideals of our Founding Fathers Preserved and made Sacred by the Blood spilt by Our Boys in countless wars; the party that helped the Weekly fill its Letters column; the party . . .

MATHEMATICS CLUB

The Math Club, devoted originally enough to "stimulating interest and understanding of mathematics," was founded in 1921, 1937, and 1963. One important preoccupation of club members is developing a formula to predict the next decline and fall of their organization. The present Math Club, however, ought to be much healthier than its predecessors since it has both founding mothers and founding fathers. Calculating females will probably assume control of the club some day, thereby stimulating a real interest in math. A renewed, campuswide interest in statistics and probabilities has already been noted since the coming of co-education.

The story of data in the raw and how to process it and a banquet in honor of retiring Professor Luther Deck highlighted this year's program.

The Muhlenberg Sociological Association, organized in 1950, is in existence for the purpose of providing opportunities for informal discussions of social problems outside of the classroom. Although a similar atmosphere of discussion is ever present in the women's dorms, the topics presented at Sociology Club meetings deal not only with the social problems of Muhlenberg's coeds, but also with current community social problems and the methods of combating these problems through various social agencies.

Dr. George Peng, City Planner of Allentown, spoke to the group about the sociological survey and urban redevelopment of the city. Mr. Frank Cosgrove of the Lehigh Valley Community Council planned a discussion and film on careers in social work. However, the projector didn't cooperate, so discussion prevailed. Other professional social workers discussed migrant labor camps and handicapped children. The group also met in the homes of Sociology professors, Dr. Morris Greth and Mr. David Thomas.

Much of S.A.M.'s success this year can be attributed to Dr. Richards, the club's advisor, who so trustingly let the organization run its own affairs. The club had some fine programs this year, and its speaker from the Federal Mediation Board was greeted by an unprecedented turnout. The big event of the year was "The Story of Productivity," a show sponsored jointly by our organization, the Lehigh Valley Chapter of S.A.M. This exhibit by the Doall Company drew interested business men from all over the area. The club's field trip to the New York Stock Exchange was also a success.

The Science Club continues the tradition of all Muhlenberg organizations in finding a reason for its existence in "the promotion of understanding," of chemistry, physics, and biology. (Absolutely no organization on campus exists for the purpose of fun, although many are laughable.) The Science Club runs a small business on the side, selling lab coats, aprons, and the Handbook of Chemistry, which, if sold in the bookstore, would cost only double the price. The club also organized the Intercollegiate Student Chemists meeting which brought students from many Eastern colleges to the Muhlenberg campus.

PHYSICS CLUB

The American Institute of Physics, or Physics Club as it is known to commoners, held a few successful meetings throughout the year with guest speakers from Bell Labs, Penn State, and Philco. Club members faithfully attended each meeting, having been encouraged to attend if recommendations were desired by their advisor.

Term papers were required of physics majors this year and the resultant theses proved rather interesting. "Why is Heat Hot?" was the title of a profound history of heat, beginning with the type of heat generated by Cleopatra and ending with a demonstration of heat at work: a hole burned into the last page.

Then there's "Watermelon Head," the exercise enthusiast, and the club president who blew out a $500 tube by overloading the circuit. Experimenting?

The John V. Shankweiler Pre-Medical Society is distinguished by having the largest enforced membership of any organization on the Muhlenberg campus. The Society tries to stimulate its members with risque movies featuring practically unclothed bodies and full of more blood and guts than Alfred Hitchcock productions. The Society also sponsors an annual frolic to some medical college and members fondly give standing ovations to speakers from drug companies after questioning them carefully and learnedly on the drug under discussion.

Dr. Charles E. Mortimer, advisor to the club and to "out-group" pre-meds, handles first-aid to the prospective M.D.s, applying an occasional therapeutic tourniquet by means of his Committee on Recommendations to Medical Schools and his signature on Medical School applications.

The academic year 1963-64 marked a milestone in the club's thirty-three year history. After an intensive, grueling examination, Dr. John E. ("Jet") Trainer was admitted as the Society's only honorary member. The retirement of dear old "Shank," the Society's founder, injected mild nostalgia into the members.

CHESS CLUB

The Muhlenberg Chess Club was formed to promote interest in chess. Members are chosen on the basis of character, attendance, interest, and payment of dues.

Though the principle thoughts of the players have been in queening pawns, we have been pawning queens in our effort to purchase a Guicco Piano.

This year a student round-robin, two faculty-student chess matches, and participation in the Eastern Pennsylvania Chess League illustrated the courage and endurance of both students and faculty. The faculty lost two matches and the team won 3 and lost 4.

The M.C.C. meets every Monday night except when studies, tests, other meetings, or basketball games intervene.

Several noteworthy events kept the club in the limelight.

- 1. Carl Hallenborg set a new record of playing the Four Knights Defense in just two days.
 - 2. Jack Cope played an Orangatang and lost.
- 3. B. English played the Danish (Gambet) against the French (Defense) with B. Horne.

Next year the club will invite speakers to discuss the following topics of interest:

- 1. Is a fianchetted bishop better than a plastered monk?
 - 2. What is a pawn to king for?
 - 3. Is a quick French mate moral!?
 - 4. Oedipus and Queen Sacrifices.
 - 5. Will a pinned queen date?

RUSSIAN CLUB

Russkoye Obshchestvo is an organization founded this year to acquaint its members with Russian culture, particularly emphasizing the "suffering of the Russian Peasants." Connected with this is a keen interest in Russian Literature which helps one to understand better the intricacies of the Russian mind and language. The meetings are conducted on a high intellectual plane, often featuring slides by retiring Lutheran clergymen. Descriptions, such as the striking of the Kremlin clocks-bong, bong, bong-broadcast over the entire U.S.S.R. upon which the sun never sets, have inspired society members upon many occasions. Appreciation of Russian music is included in our cultural goals. The society attended a recorded performance of Mussorgsky's opera, Boris Godunov, in which the ear-shattering clamor of the giant bell, Ivan Vyeleekie-bong, bong, bong-drones out the mood of the misery and "suffering of the Russian peasants." Lack of dues has not prevented the society from offering gastronomical delights to all who happen to "show." The society's well organized program has made its first year a smashing success.

The major requirement for membership in the society is the memorization of "hello" and "good-bye" in the Russian language.

Membership in Der Deutsche Verein, the campus German Society, is based primarily on dexterity in manipulating a stein full of beer while meeting near a dry campus. Of secondary importance is the rapid and confident placing of omlauts and the ability to talk fluently in German while sneering at Romance Language majors.

With a handful of pretzels and a stein, members of the society gathered this year for an authentic German picnic in the Rosegardens, they sang authentic German songs with Klaus Kingsdorf playing the accordion, they held an authentic German Christmas party, basking in the warmth of peace and good cheer, the latter in the form of Glühewein (glowwine), they munched their pretzels and washed them down with authentic German bier. There was beer too following singing, polkaing, treasurer's reports, and classes.

HILLEL

The Hillel Society was formed to provide its members with the opportunity to explore further the meaning of their Jewish heritage, and to encourage the members of the Jewish faith on campus to pursue their faith actively.

The group participated in discussions with similar organizations from surrounding colleges and invited a number of lecturers to their meetings.

The Muhlenberg Christian Association placed a triple emphasis on worship, education and service this year. As for worship, it eliminated devotions from its Sunday Evening Forums, hoping that the evenings' discussions would produce spiritual refreshment. Formal devotions were confined to retreats, Advent and Lenten Vespers. The group's emphasis on education brought the Billy Taylor Trio and the Advent Players to campus. M.C.A. members heard Dr. Bednar speak on politics and morality; they listened to a Maiser study of Freudian psychology; and sat with folded hands while Dr. Stamm discussed religion in current literature. All these study groups, lectures, forums, and retreats cut into time for service, however, but they did manage to visit patients at the Allentown State Hospital and the Good Shepherd Home. M.C.A. also talked 375 resident students into Fasting for Freedom, giving up one whole meal in the Union and sending the proceeds from Caucasian, prosperous, politically inert Muhlenberg to Negro families in depressed, politically critical Mississippi.

NEWMAN CLUB

Since Muhlenberg College is a Christian college in the Lutheran sense of the word, Catholic students rely on the Newman Club to supplement their religious education and to help them get acquainted with other Catholics. The local Newman Club is the only campus organization to have more members than the Education Society. This is probably because it includes not only Muhlenberg students but also students from the Allentown School of Nursing and Cedar Crest College.

This year's club spent much of its time tracking down Douay Versions of the Bible for Biblical Literature and the rest of its time lending Bibles to poor Protestants whose King James Versions lack the Apochrypha. If only someone could find a Staack Version, Muhlenberg would be a much happier college.

The Institute of Faith annually brings to the campus a prominent theologian who discusses the relationship between Christianity and twentieth century living. Organized at the college in 1950, the Institute introduced Dr. Hagen Staack and Dr. David Bremer to the student body. This year, Dr. George Forell, professor of Protestant theology at the State University of Iowa, gave a series of lectures entitled "The Search for Meaning in Contemporary Life." He divided the field of his search into the areas of academics, politics, and religion, losing at least half his potential audience by not searching for meaning in contemporary sex. Fortunately, Dr. Forell was scheduled during the school day when most students are in the Student Union building anyway but since he confessed that his remarks were addressed primarily to Christians, and since there are so few confessed Christians on campus, the value of his speeches was less than it should have been.

PHILOSOPHY CLUB

The Greek philosopher Socrates once said, "The unexamined life is not worth living." The purpose of the Philosophy Club is to give those students of diverse backgrounds who are interested in examining what Paul Tillich calls the "ultimate concerns" a chance to do so outside the domain of that all powerful goddess, the Grading System. Students who venture into this Academic Unknown of Intellectual Curiosity find both the attempts of earlier thinkers to critically understand themselves, and the tools best suited for such a journey.

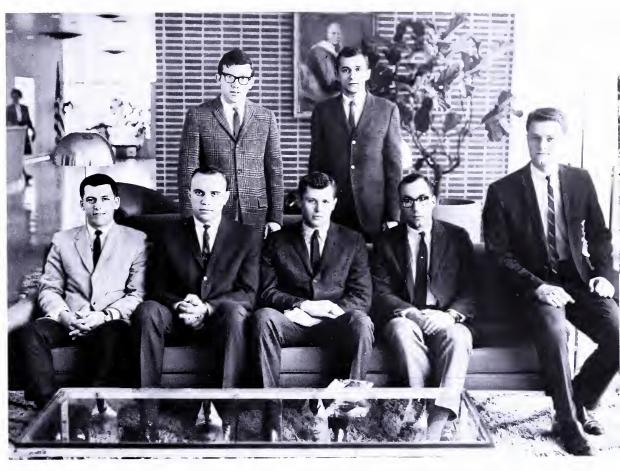

This year we were honored to hear a talk by Dr. Rodney Ring, official Court Jester of the Religion Department. We have also discussed such men as Plato, Kierkegaard, and William James. In each instance a dialogue has been carried on among members, and although a definite conclusion was not always made (and indeed philosophy does not so much provide Truth to be accepted as to clarify the issues), we did come away with a deeper understanding and appreciation of the problem being discussed.

The Philosophy Club has not been organized to expound a simple five point credo ("I am sorry, Shel, but we cannot have just a three letter philosophy!"—Hugh Hefner). The club has accepted no one system of thought over any other as the valid approach to reality. Rather, it has shown us that life is not either Good or Evil, but admits of many degrees. It is at this starting point that one begins to leave the realm of the unexamined life.

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

The Pennsylvania Alpha Iota Chapter of Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity, established at Muhlenberg in 1881, is the oldest of the six fraternities on the Muhlenberg campus.

The brothers of Alpha lota have been active in all areas of college activity. Members hold positions in Student Council, Student Court, Freshman Orientation Committee, Cardinal Key Society, and the Weekly. The brothers have also participated in most of the athletic teams of the college. In the area of intramural sports, Alpha lota copped the intramural and IFC title in football and placed well in the other athletic events. The Fraternity was also awarded the trophy for Best Project in the Greek Week activities.

As usual, the social calendar was crowded. The annual Parents' Day in the Fall, the Thanksgiving Dinner for the Faculty, and the Alpine Weekend of Senior Ball mark a few of the high points of the social activities.

The Fraternity looks back with satisfaction to the accomplishments of the year and will continue to operate according to the ideals of the Fraternity.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

Lambda Chi Alpha was installed at Muhlenberg on October 12, 1940, through the merger of Theta Kappa Nu, Delta Theta and Philos Alumni groups. Since that time, Nu Epsilon has become a leader in many phases of campus life.

The brothers of Lambda Chi have shown interest in all phases of campus activity. They are represented in such organizations and activities as: Student Council, Freshman Orientation Committee, Alpha Phi Omega, and the Choir. The Fraternity also has played an active part in the sports program of the college. Brothers of Nu Epsilon are to be found on all varsity teams. In the intramural program, Lambda Chi has been consistently near the top. In this year's Greek Week events, the Tug-of-War was won by Lambda Chi Alpha.

Socially, the parties were consistently successful. They are among the liveliest on campus.

Lambda Chi Alpha looks to the future to continue its fine record of accomplishments.

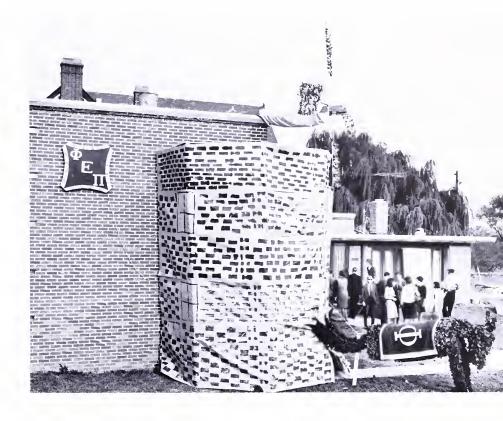

PHI EPSILON PI

The Alpha Nu chapter of the Phi Epsilon Pi Fraternity has just completed another highly successful year. Academically, Phi Ep was awarded the Scholarship trophy for the tenth consecutive semester, illustrating the importance of scholarship in the Fraternity. The Brothers also compiled an impressive record in extracurricular activities. Brothers of Phi Ep held important positions in: Student Council, Class Offices, the Pre-Medical Society, Student Court and the Weekly. Phi Ep was represented in all intramural athletic activities. The brothers showed a great deal of spirit in this area and fared quite well. The Fraternity was also represented on Muhlenberg's varsity football, baseball, track, and tennis teams. Social activities also played an important role in the Fraternity. Of special importance were the Big Weekends.

Clearly, the Fraternity has enjoyed a highly rewarding year and anticipates similar success next year. This success is to be found in all areas—academic, athletic, service, and social.

PHI KAPPA TAU

The Eta Chapter of the Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity has had one of its most rewarding years resulting in accomplishments in all fields of the college life.

Phi Taus participated heavily in the intramural sports program of the college. The Fraternity copped top honors in Track, Cross Country, Basketball, and Tennis. With good standing in the other sports, the Fraternity amassed enough points to win the Intramural and IFC All-Sports Trophies. Brothers are also active in varsity sports from Football to Baseball.

In addition to its sports life, the Fraternity has many brothers participating in other campus activities including: Student Council, Student Court, Freshman Orientation Committee, Union Board, Pre-Medical Society, and the Ciarla.

A successful social season capped the accomplishments of the year. The Homecoming display was awarded top honors in the Fraternity competition. The Casino party during rushing was a memorable success. The annual Spring Weekend concluded an enjoyable and successful social calendar.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

The Pennsylvania IOTA Chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon has completed a successful twenty-sixth year at Muhlenberg and looks forward to a future brightened by the prospect of a new house. Composed of forty-two Brothers, the Chapter strives through dynamic academic and social programs for a Greater Muhlenberg and a greater Sig Ep.

Sigma Phi Epsilon as a Fraternity places emphasis on the development of each individual's potential, through scholarship, participation in campus activities, and a well-rounded social life. Scholastically, the Chapter program encourages the maximum academic achievement of each Brother. In addition, Sig Ep is represented in all phases of campus activity such as: student government, the Union Board, Band, Choir, WMUH, national honorary fraternities, and College Sports. The end of the year also saw the completion of a successful social program centered on the Five Big Party Weekends and numerous other social and fraternal events. Emphasizing the importance of fellowship, Sigma Phi Epsilon participated in interfraternity events and intramural sports.

Firmly convinced of the value of Fraternity life, the Brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon look forward in the coming year to continued brotherhood growth and action.

TAU KAPPA EPSILON

Tau Kappa Epsilon is the youngest of the six fraternal organizations on the Muhlenberg campus. A controversial house, Teke has an active inter-denominational policy. The Fraternity has successfully assimilated the opposing views of the brothers into a cohesive unified whole. Demonstrating an indifference to racial barriers, Teke has provided free board for African student "Al" Indeshaw, who enjoys the Fraternity's fellowship.

Completing a successful and interesting year, TKE copped the intramural bowling trophy. In keeping with its fine devotion to scholarship, Teke took second place in the inter-fraternal scholastic competition. On the other hand, without neglecting their studies, TKE's brothers have made the house a fireball of social life. The parties are among the liveliest and most talked about on campus.

Always looking ahead, TKE anticipates the construction of its new house. Assuredly, Tau Kappa Epsilon has done its part to keep the name "Fraternity" alive on campus.

1963 was the final year of Muhlenberg College's football transition from the Middle Atlantic Conference University Division to the Southern College division. Consequently it was the last year Lafayette and Temple would appear on the Berg schedule, and perhaps that was the way things should be, for the Mules went on to a 5 and 3 season record, the first winning season in three years. But it was Lafayette that gave Ray Whispell's squad its initial, and most memorable, victory. Maybe Dan Poust, Tony Longo and Charlie Woginrich sensed the end of an athletic era, or maybe Berg was really a better team. But the reasons for victory are always secondary in importance to the victory itself, and after sixty minutes of play the score read Muhlenberg 18, Lafayette 7. And right then the College thought it had a football team. Three games later that faith was shaken by a 33-14 loss to Gettysburg. But then Woginrich and Dave Binder took over. Berg closed the season riding the crest of an impressive three game winning streak, Binder received the Hatchet award for defensive excellence and Woginrich was named the East's outstanding small college sophomore back. But most important; Muhlenberg College in 1963 discovered that while losing was edifying, winning could be fun.

SOCCER

The 1963 soccer season was a winless one for the Cardinal and Gray booters. The failure to defeat any opponents can be attributed for the most part to the team's inexperience. Although freshmen such as Chuck Price and Bucky Buchholz demonstrated skill in the sport and a determination to win, Coach Rudy Amelio's squad lacked the polish which comes from team members' long experience of playing together as a unit.

Lacking in depth, Muhlenberg was unable to keep pace with its competition which included schools such as Swarthmore, Franklin and Marshall, and Wilkes. The squad also lost to Haverford, one of the strongest soccer teams in the East. Said Coach Amelio about Haverford's victory over Muhlenberg: "It is comparable to our football team playing Navy." A more realistic slate of competitors and the experience of returning players ought to provide the formula for a winning team in seasons to come.

CROSS COUNTRY

Despite the consistently fine performance of freshman, Alemayehu Indeshaw, Coach Charles Theisen's harriers finished the 1963 season with a 1-8 record. The team was plagued with inexperience with only Bob Schlegel, John Trainer, and Tom Dobosh returning to the squad. The only win (19-36) came against Moravian with Al Indeshaw taking first place, and Jack Dickinson, sidelined earlier in the season because of an injury, showing potential as an asset to next year's team.

In a triangle meet on Albright's course, Muhlenberg placed third (59) in competition with Albright (50) and Haverford (35). The squad ended its season by competing in the MAC Cross-Country championships in Philadelphia. Although the only Muhlenberg runner to place was Al Indeshaw, the team as a whole beat Scranton and Haverford, both of which had beaten Muhlenberg earlier in the season.

Finishing with a 7-1 slate, Jean Hecht's hockey team had a most successful season. However, their 2-1 loss to Millersville was crushing in that it was the first field hockey defeat in five years. Nevertheless, the high competitive spirit and the fast action which characterizes the Muhlenberg squad was evident in its one loss, as well as its wins.

Our Hockey team scored a total of 33 goals in eight games and allowed its opponents only four. Topping the point list was sophomore Jeannette Gier with 13 goals. Jean Monson and Barbara Bondi, both freshmen, scored eight and seven respectively. A highly disciplined team, Muhlenberg was almost unanimously complimented on its excellent sportsmanship, as well as its outstanding skill, during its highly successful season.

The women again held their own in intercollegiate basketball competition, turning in a 6-4 slate for the 1964 season. The fine teamwork was sparked by several outstanding players. Mary Ann Peters, who was the team's high scorer with 137 points, and Peggy Ward together accounted for better than half of the team's 430 points during this season.

The 6-4 record, however, belies much of the excellence of the team and its play. The total point margin of their losses was ten points and no loss was by more than five points, both facts showing the women to have been an even match for even their most difficult opponents. The closeness of these crucial games only points up the great skill of the Muhlenberg squad this year.

BASKETBALL

December saw Muhlenberg College caught in the throes of a revolutionary idea: If winning football games provided an enjoyable sensation, maybe victory on the basketball court would also prove palatable. "What the heck, we're in the College Division now and we can't watch All-Americans like Tom Wynn, Bruce Drysdale and Tom Hoover in action at Memorial Hall anymore. But doesn't John Linnet have some of Hoover's moves? That's right, let's pretend he's an All-American and nickname him "Hoover" and instead of losing to LaSalle, St. Joe's and Villanova by 20 let's beat Lebanon Valley, F and M and P.M.C. by 30." That's just what happened too. In fact, the Mules led by Linnet and Gary Spengler, even made the MAC College division playoffs. They lost both games but that didn't really seem important because the 12 and 10 overall record was a success unprecedented in the last five years. Along the way Spengler staged one of the finest exhibitions in Muhlenberg's athletic annals. Against N.I.T. bound Temple he scored 40 points, but Berg lost. And perhaps a lesson was to be learned from that game. The excitement of having an Eastern basketball giant as competition was present for the only time during the course of the season. But victory was impossible. Three years ago Muhlenberg had the choice of taking one or the other. This season indicated that the right decision was made.

WRESTLING

After two consecutive years of success the Muhlenberg College wrestling squad posted a record that fell below the 500 mark. But in compiling a 3-6-1 record Coach Charlie Kuntzleman's squad gained the experience necessary to make them authentic contenders for conference honors next year. In the last two matches of the season, against Lafayette and Ursinus, Kuntzleman used five underclassmen and three juniors. Rich Biolsi and freshman John Piper were responsible for a large measure of the success enjoyed by the wrestling team this year. Biolsi was undefeated in regular season matches and took second place in the MAC tournament, while Piper finished the year with 6 wins, two losses, and a draw. With Biolsi and Piper as the nucleus of a seasoned team Kuntzleman should look forward to next year with pleasant expectations.

TRACK

Although Coach William Flamish's cindermen finished the 1964 season with a 3-5 record, the squad had more than its share of outstanding individual performances.

Senior Dean Lowe contributed much to the victories that the Muhlenberg thinclads did amass. He was the squad's high scorer with 99 $\frac{1}{4}$ points and holds both hurdle records.

One of the highlights of the season was the Swarthmore Middle Atlantic Conference College Division Track Meet. Muhlenberg placed a surprising second along with Dickinson College in a competing field of fourteen schools. Lowe broke the thirty-three year old 120 hurdle record of 15.2 by dashing it in 15.1. Charles Woginrich set a new pole vault record of 12'6", breaking his own 1962 mark of 12'5 \(\frac{1}{4} \)".

Another notable performance during the season was that of Ken Butz who set a new shot put record of $48'5\frac{1}{2}''$.

Although the squad lacked a quantity of good long distance runners, Al Indeshaw and Mike McClellan were consistent placers in their events with 21 and $25 \frac{1}{2}$ personal points respectively.

BASEBALL

Although Coach Joe Federico's baseball team had its best record in eight years, the final tally of six wins and eight losses still did not make a winning season. The Mules were plagued with inconsistency, beating Scranton, for instance, 4-3 and losing the next day to Moravian, 10-0.

One outstanding game was Muhlenberg's 7-3 victory over the Engineers of Lehigh. This was sweet revenge for a 3-2 loss to the same team earlier in the season. The Cardinal and Gray accumulated eleven hits including a homer by Chuck Lewis and a triple by Bill Stoudt. Ralph Weisgerber, a freshman pitcher, picked up his first win of the season in this encounter.

Because many team members were versatile and experienced, Coach Federico's strategy in selecting starting players was to use his nine best men. This not only enabled him to put together the strongest combination possible, but also to switch players' positions during the season.

Seniors Larry Blum, Chuck Lewis, and Bill Stoudt will be a loss to the team, but capable underclassmen like Lynn Rothrock have the potential to finally give Muhlenberg a winning baseball team.

TENNIS

The 1964 season produced a 7-4 record for Coach Kenneth Webb's netmen and also established freshmen Jack Dickinson and Ray Garrison as assets to this and future seasons' squads. The return of six lettermen was backed by the strength of these two "frosh finds" to again put this Muhlenberg team in the winner's circle.

The combination of Garrison and Dickinson was a highly successful one in doubles competition, while Garrison fared well alone, winning all but one of his singles matches. By the end of the season Garrison had taken over Ed Simon's top-seeded position. Any hopes to place in the MAC Tennis championships were cut short for Simon, Dickinson, and Garrison. Initially paired against players that later went on to win titles, the representatives from Muhlenberg had little opportunity to face more than one opponent.

The team will miss the dependable winning of senior Morgan Brassler, but with Brassler as the only graduating member of the squad, Muhlenberg has a good chance of compiling an even more impressive record in the spring of 1965.

First Row. Kenneth Webb, Cooch, M. Friedmon, J. Henderson, E. Simon. Second Row: B. Eddington, J. Dickinson, M. Brossler, S. Smythe, R. Gorrison.

WOMEN'S TENNIS

Carrying thru the winning name of the female athletes of Muhlenberg, the women's tennis team ended their season with a 3-1 slate.

Guided by one of Muhlenberg's winning coaches, Jean Hecht, the netwomen copped victories with their first three games against Millersville (6 $\frac{1}{2}$ - $\frac{1}{2}$), Drexel $(3\frac{1}{2}-\frac{1}{2})$, and Moravian (5-0). They lost their last game against East Stroudsburg (5-0), ending their winning streak.

The outstanding player of the season honored at the All-Sports Banquet was junior Annika Toffer. Other members of the team who displayed excellent ability were Mary Ann Peters, Barbara Bondi, and Jean Monson.

Concluding the women's role in this year's athletic season, the tennis team maintained the winning reputation of the 'Berg coeds, an enviable reputation on this campus.

FENCING

A 13-14 loss to Haverford was as close as the Muhlenberg College fencing squad came to registering a victory in the 1963-64 season. But despite a 0 and 7 team record, individual performances were often encouraging. Dave Gaskill compiled a 9-3 record in the MAC's post-season tournament and was named to the All Conference foil team. Also, next year will see the return of successful competitors Steve Hatzai and Dick Kressloff.
